Lincoln was once approached with a scheme by

He listened with patience, and said that, while it seemed possible to bridge over the trouble be-tween the two sections, he had doubts about the good faith of the Confederacy in the trans-

LOCAL WHOLESALE TRADE

BUSINESS GOOD, CONSIDERING THE WEEK'S ELECTION RECESS.

Prices Stendy and Firm in Nearly All Lines-Grain Markets Light, with a Varying Tone.

Trade in the week ended Nov. 8 was satisfactory in volume for a week in which there was an election. The last three days of the week, however, business was good and prices in most lines very firm. Fruits and vegetables are in large supply, but commission merchants manage to maintain prices quite firmly. The grocery market is very active and prices have ruled steady for the longest time on record. Cereal foods ent, $3.75; straight grade, $3.40; fancy grade, $3.25; low grade, $2.50; graham flour, $3.75. are much in demand, but are growing so constantly in variety as to have almost set the retail dealer distracted. New brands are constantly being put on the market, with liberal and lurid advertising, occasioning varied demand, which requires the retailer to carry a greatly assorted stock, which many dealers who have not unlimited capital are finding inconvenient. Buckwheat flour is on the market and coming into request. Beans have been slightly easier all this week, the influence of the fancy imported stock being felt, but no real decline has occurred, nor does it look as though any break in the market was probable. Canned goods are now receiving much and prices are firm. There is a growing demand for fruits and preserves, upon her own preserving and more upon the stocks of large canning establishments. Currants and other dried fruits are in excelient demand at unchanged prices. The dry goods houses are not doing as well as they would were the weather cooler, but Trices on woolen goods rule very firm. The hardware stores are doing an excellent business. The hide market continues changed but firm. Poultry is weaker, with the supply increasing. Butter, if choice, readily commands the best quotation, and eggs are fast movers and in light supply.

> the day, after a rather weak opening, which was due principally to liberal receipts in the Northwest. Better weather than expected was also a weakening factor early in the day. A feature to trading was the buying of over a million bushels, supposed to be for the account of a leading bull. Around 74c for May there was general profit taking by longs. A good export demand and prospects of a decrease in the movement were bull factors. December opened a shade higher to 1/8@1/4c lower at 711/2071%c, and after holding about steady the first hour there was an advance to 72c and the close was 1/4c higher at 71%c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 413,000 bu. Primary receipts were 1,614,-000 bu, compared with 1,084,000 bu a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 1,001 cars, which, with local receipts of 175 cars, nine of contract grade, made a total of 1,176 cars, against 1,002 last week and 962 a year ago.

> Corn was dull and prices had a downward tendency, due to a lack of any material support to the market. Firmness in wheat and a good cash demand were strengthening factors. Cables were firm and the movement moderate. Considerable weakness developed on commission-house selling. December closed 1/3c lower at 50%c, after ranging between 50%c and 51%c. Receipts were 131 cars, 16 of contract grade. There was a fair trade in oats and prices were firm in sympathy with wheat and on predictions of unfavorable weather. Commission houses were good buyers early, but turned sellers later in the day. ing in a slight break toward the close, which was about unchanged from yesterday's final figures. December closed a shade higher at 30%c, ranging between 30@ 30%c and 30%c. Receipts were 207 cars. Provisions were easier, the heavy run of hogs expected next week being responsible for the lower figures. Trade was only moderate and the close was at a slight decline. ### Concerning Sleep. Holmes Smith, M. D., in the Pilgrim,

The scholar and professional man, like the anxious housewife, is apt to carry his cares to smaller than the same period last year. It is bed, and insomnia becomes a curse. Men and rarely that prices in six days show as little women who are busted in getting and gaining, the merchant, the banker, all alike, fail to secure that self-control which can manage the mind as well asleep as awake. Normal sleep should be purely a physiological repose similar to the rest of animals, which go to sleep with the darkness and awake with the light. Some one has said that sleep is like hunger and thirst, representing a diminution of energy throughout the entire body. I hardly think this can be true, but in my judgment sleep rather suggests the diminution of the energy of the brain, and he is a wise man who takes the hint | were above the average of the week, and, with when brain fag sets in of an evening and goes a steady demand from all sources, the supply comfortably and properly to bed. Of course it goes without saying that night is not the only time for sleep. Men and women week. Representative sales indicate the class who are busy could steal just a few minutes of stock on the market. Quotations: before or after the noon-day luncheon to catch little nap, and, indeed, I am nearly sure that the noonday nap is worth more than the noonday meal, for the digestive processes are surely hindered during the periods of mental activity, and it is the exceptional person in this busy world of ours who is not called upon to use all his brain and brawn to make a living. It has been my habit to advise mothers to steal a while away from every "cumberous care," and even if sleen fails to be wooed to take about twenty minutes every day in absolute peace and quietness, di-verting the mind from all anxieties and relaxing all the muscles. A habit of this kind is easily acquired, and we might have fewer neurasthenic women whose nerves make life hideous to their families if a word like this, spoken from considerable experience, were heeded.

Notwithstanding there have been frequent fluctuations in prices this week and prices at the close of the week were the lowest, the market in all other respects has been very satisfactory to the selling side. The week opened with a decline of 10@15c, and on Wednesday the average was fully 15c lower than the close of last week. On Thursday there was a rally of 5@15c, but this was immediately followed by another reaction, and, with unusually liberal receipts at the extreme close of the week, values broke badly, and the last sales represented a decline of 20@ 25c in prices compared with those current at the close of last week. The receipts to-day were unusually liberal, being almost as large as yester-day, nearly 3,000 larger than a week ago, 2,000 larger than a year ago and the largest receipts for a Saturday this year. When the market opened there was only about 5,000 in the pens, and this number being only about large enough to accommodate local packers they took hold freely at a decline of 10@15c in prices, which was in line with reports from other places, and, therefore, salesmen were willing to transfer their consignments. There was very little oping considerably augmented by late trains the natural tendency was, of course, weaker, and packers succeeded in getting their last sales 5@ 10c lower than the opening. At the decline they continued free buyers until their wants were supplied, but they were forced to leave about 1,000 in the pens unsold. The market for the day was variously estimated from 5c to 25c lower with the bulk of the supply 10@15c lower, and the lowest sales 15@20c lower than yesterday. The extreme range in prices was from $6.10 to $6.70, and a very large percentage of the supply

NATURE IN ART DESIGN.

Similarity Between Standard Patterns and Geological Formations.

The increased use of natural objects in what for lack of a better term, is called industrial art, is largely due to some lectures delivered not long ago by university graduates before the schools work had been either along conventional lines or else entirely original, frequently painfully origimarkable beauty and utility of many of the fossils, both plant and animal. What made the matter more interesting was the resemblance, they pointed out, between many standard patterns in textiles and designs in metal work and common-from the rain marks found in the old red sandstone in the Connecticut river. The dot and line crystal, black, scarlet, gold, white, brown, green and bluish, and are always restful and at the same time impressive. In these nature has har-actly as the Tartars do in Russian Tartary.

There are moments in the life of many a woman when ket, from which she must snatch such food as she only to see it disappear from her tired hands be-fore the greedy demands of appetite. Against the depression of this mood there are a few remwife that in her home the food shall be so cooked and served as to remove the meal as far as possible from the mere process of feeding, and ally it with the satisfaction of those appetites that we call the higher.
